Collect continues to add to its range of home accessories with the addition of richly textured, handcrafted rugs, as well as a modern take on the classic maritime lantern silhouette with Hurricane.

Since its line of beautifully crafted soft furnishings and home objects was launched in 2020, Collect has built a reputation for premium materials and timeless design in an earthy palette. “The Collect series is all about showing that accent pieces can be created with an architectural approach, while also making items that can add texture and layers in an understated way,” explains Space Copenhagen founder Signe Bindslev Henriksen. The line’s latest additions are intended to build upon that legacy.

Described by Space Copenhagen as “framing the poetic nature of candlelight,” Hurricane is the latest addition to the Collect series. The rounded glass and metal lantern offers a soft flicker of light that adds warmth and depth to both residential and commercial environments, indoor and outdoor.

Hurricane holds a strong and elegant presence fit for adding ambiance to spas, hotels, restaurant terraces, and positioned around the home garden, on its own or in clusters. The sturdy, elevated base of the lamp gives a tapered or block candle centre stage, while the minimalist design ensures cohesion with the rest of the Collect collection.

The new rugs, crafted from a blend of New Zealand wool and recycled polyester come in three organic hues: Milk, Caramel, and Stone. The muted tones married with the elevated quality of the textile results in rugs that are unobtrusive and visually binding, lending softness and warmth. The rugs come in sizes 170 x 240 cm and 200 x 300 cm, making them ideal for both medium and large spaces. Each rug is woven in a non-directional square pattern, making them highly versatile, while their neutral aesthetic makes visual space for other furniture and pieces in the room.

The Collect rugs are crafted by skilled artisans in Bikaner, India, with the undyed natural wool woven on a handloom. The work and expertise invested into each rug underscores the artistry of the piece that can be found in both Collect’s design as well as the weaving process itself.

Designed by Space Copenhagen, the intention behind the Collect series is to create pieces that can be added to the home, one by one with intentionality – as a collector would. The latest additions of finely crafted rugs and the sleek Hurricane lamp expand on this concept, bringing light, depth, and a sense of calm to the collection.

“As architects, our work pivots around spatial composition and ambiance as we seek to create harmony in a space,” Henriksen and Rützou explain. “This collection functions as a base layer, and then the individual can turn the volume up or down based on their own style.”
